Israel Journal of Health Policy Research (IJHPR)*, the official journal of the Israel National Institute for Health Policy and Health Services Research, is an open access, peer reviewed, online journal.

IJHPR seeks to promote intensive intellectual interactions among scholars and practitioners from Israel and other countries regarding all aspects of health policy, health services research, public health, health promotion, health economics, health care management, and the ethics, sociology, and political science of health care in Israel. The ultimate aim of these intellectual interactions is to contribute to the development of health policy in Israel and around the world.

This journal endeavors to disseminate information about the achievements and dilemmas of Israeli health care, to facilitate dialogue between experts from Israel and elsewhere, and to enhance the extent to which Israel and other countries can learn from one another's health systems.

The journal considers the following article types: original research articles, book reviews, integrative articles, meeting reports and short communications. For further details, see www.ijhpr.org/about/.
